

Technical Review

There is a terrific amount of knowledge area that you could be tested on in an aviation interview and each employer is unique in their approach. No interview process is the same. We will cover those areas most often tested for the company with which you are seeking employment and give you a solid foundation from which to build for the industry in general. Our goal is to make the interview seem basic and straightforward. Preparation is the key. In addition, this class will better equip you for your ground class experience once you are hired.
